edge proportioned for selectable engagement with said upper peripheral edge of said lower shell. The kit further includes a multiplicity of brush bristles, each having one end thereof embedded within a base of an internal cavity of said upper shell, said bristles having a length sufficient to project into said absorptive pad when said lower edge of said upper shell is secured to an upper edge of said lower shell. Said flat upper surface of said upper shell may comprise a surface defined by a peripheral edge proportioned for selectable engagement within said upper peripheral edge of said lower shell.
